

CANCER, HEALING and WELLBEING

Accessing the heart and science of Lifestyle Medicine

Offering genuine hope for all those affected by cancer

The 8 DAY RESIDENTIAL PROGRAM

with Drs Ruth and Ian Gawler

May 2015 : Friday 15th to Friday 22nd

Located amidst the natural beauty of Wanaka, New Zealand

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

With cancer comes many challenges. The obvious health issues, the potential life changes, treatment regimes, adapting to a new way of living, maybe even a new way of being.

There is hope. What you do, along with those around you can make a huge difference; maybe even the difference between life and death.

Ian Gawler overcame a particularly difficult cancer that began in 1975. A bestselling author, Ian began the world's first lifestyle based self-help groups for both cancer and multiple sclerosis.

Ruth Gawler is a GP who has had a special interest in Mind-Body medicine for many years.

Together, Ian and Ruth have around 50 years of training and experience that you can draw upon.

This program is the fruit of the hundreds of groups Ruth and Ian have facilitated, and the thousands of people they have helped and learnt from.

THE PROGRAM

This program will provide a gentle blend of theory and experience. A wide range of choices will be presented for you and their relative merits for healing and wellbeing discussed. The emphasis will be on what has been found to work in practice as well as what the research says, and you will be assisted to decide what is best for your particular situation. The program is evidence based and highly experiential, so you will have the opportunity to learn, as well as to experience the food, practise the meditation, and to be in a supportive, positive atmosphere.

The aim is that you will go home from the program having experienced the possibilities and that you will be clear about your choices, confident regarding what will help you most directly, and ready to apply it all in daily life.

What we are talking of is not “Alternative Medicine”, nor even “Complementary Medicine” as such, although all of this is designed to complement any other treatments you may be having. No, this is Lifestyle Medicine and it is to do with the therapeutic impacts of what we eat and drink, our levels of exercise, our relationships, the state of our mind and our capacity to mobilise the power of our mind using techniques such as positive thinking, relaxation, mindfulness, creative imagery and meditation.

You will learn more about the role Lifestyle Medicine plays in overcoming the many challenges of cancer; including the science relating to the therapeutic benefits of nutrition, positive states of mind, mindfulness and meditation. There will be good time for questions and discussion. Regular relaxation, mindfulness, meditation and guided imagery practice sessions will be a feature.

The pace of the program has been designed to be restful and regenerative, amidst a valuable learning experience.

SPECIFIC TOPICS PRESENTED

- The experience, the theory and the techniques of relaxation, mindfulness, meditation and creative imagery.
- The therapeutic possibilities of good food – the nutritional research relating to cancer and a plant based, whole food diet. The foods to eat, those to avoid, the significance of juicing, herbs and supplements – and most importantly, how to prepare tasty, enjoyable food that is really good for you and those you love.
- Healthy emotions and positive psychology. How to overcome old hurts, transform fears for the future, live more in the present and use the power of your mind for healing.

- There will be specific smaller group sessions for partners and carers – addressing the all important role of the carer - discussing how others have been most effective and how to look after themselves in the process.
- The search for meaning – many find that a major life crisis causes them to rethink their world, and their place in it. There will be good time to reflect and discuss these issues.

Many people, including carers report that this program was profoundly transformative in their own personal development, as well as being a real turning point for those on the healing path.
